A Memoir: A Journey Not Chosen

Synopsis

Gloria Revilla Doyle, at the age of 41, was disabled by exploratory surgery. With the stroke of a knife, neurosurgery left her a "walking" quadriplegic. Diagnosed with an inoperable spinal cord tumor, a rare progressive condition, the medical prognosis was grim. Western medicine offered no cure, yet she has endured and survived. Her personal odyssey has been a quest for healing and knowledge that transcends disability.

Early in this manuscript about her discoveries in disability, Gloria Revilla Doyle writes of making 'a pilgrimage in search of grace.' A Journey Not Chosen demonstrates that she has indeed found the grace she sought. There is no bitterness, self-pity, or self-indulgence on these pages. Instead, Gloria's clear, insightful voice rings out with deeply achieved lessons in humanity." SUSAN STAMBERG, National Public Radio "This is a magnificent story about suffering, growth, faith and strength. You will remember it for life." MORTON KONDRACK, Roll Call newspaper, Fox News, author of Saving Milly: Love, Politics and Parkinson's Disease

Compelling story of strength and courage. Truly inspiring.
