Roger Priddy's passion for educating children through fun, informative and engaging books has led him to create some of publishing's most enduring and successful nonfiction early learning books. Roger lives in London and has three children, who have been the inspiration behind many of his best publishing ideas.

Perfect for a 12 month old! This was a gift and he is in love with these books. They are well-made and an overall hit with the parents and the child. I would highly recommend these for parents who read to their child and lets the child hold the book as well. The pages are nice and thick and it was well packaged with no damage.

Great pictures, bright colors, fun words... some of them are a little abstract for first 100 words... abacus, water dragon (instead of lizard), lol. I don't mind, but every once and a while there is an animal or item that is quite unusual and not what I would consider necessary for a first 100 word.

I question some of the "first word" choices for this book but regardless, my 15 month old LOVES these books. We even take them on plane rides and road trips to help with restlessness. Definitely recommend as a first book to get your little one finally loving books.

My little one-year old granddaughter loves these little board books. She already recognizes things and can point them out in the book.

bought for my grandson. I had also bought this set for my other son's son. This set is a great group of books for young learners.

my kiddo loves these series of books. must be the colors and how the pictures are laid out but can't go wrong with board books with a toddler.

Thick board pages! Colorful images & lots of them. Baby was interested right away. Will check out more from this brand.

They are so cute , perfect for my toddler ! And I think he loves them - great quality too !!!
