Are You Dating A Liar?: 12 Handwriting Strokes That Reveal You Are Dating A Liar (Handwriting Expert)

Synopsis

Have you dated a jerk? Are you afraid of dating another gold-digger? Well, as the popular saying goes "Prevention is better than cure". ARE YOU DATING A LIAR? is one such precautionary medicine that can help you avoid a bad, manipulative relationship. ARE YOU DATING A LIAR? is a comprehensive, to-the-point ebook that highlights 12 handwriting strokes which reveal a liar. This e-book will help you in:- Finding out quickly if a person is a liar- Recognizing the various lying strokes found in the handwriting- Detecting a liar at workplace or any other social scenario- Finding out which of your friends are frequent liars, so you trust them wisely

EXCERPT: In the book's context, it can't be said that a secretive person tells lies but definitely he/she is holding back to something. It is like lying in reverse. Where you know something but you do not share it with your partner. It should also be noted that as the loop in the letter 'e' gets bigger, so does the amount of secrets that are withheld by the person. Consider the loop of the letter 'e' as a bag - bigger the bag; the more secrets can stay inside it. Also consider that presence of such loops occasionally in the handwriting accompanied by normal loop-less 'e's means that the person keeps secrets to others (which he/she should) but is otherwise honest and straightforward. This simple stroke is very common to see in handwriting and should not be considered as something which would define a person who is habitual to lying. Though, this trait accompanied by other strokes can lead to the finding that you are dating a liar. When I initially learnt about graphology, I learnt that this rightward loop in the letter 'e' means that a person keeps secrets. When I saw this stroke in one of my then best friend's handwriting, I had a big fight with her as I thought she shared all the secrets with me. But on gaining more knowledge about the subject, I learnt that some personalities do need to keep secrets. This is their personality's need. If they do not fulfill this need the personality does not feel to be in equilibrium. Do you think your personality has any such specific need, which if left unfulfilled, makes you feel not being in equilibrium?
