Fell like an insider with the fun local take on must see and do things in Souther California!

This is smaller in size than older editions, but it is as informative as the Lonely Planets of Old. Easier to carry around with you. We are yet to travel to LA to try this edition out. To my way of touring and thinking this is an interesting Lonely Planet guide. I have purchased several others LP guides and some are more interesting to me than others. This one I have read cover to cover, my children(young Teens) have read and enjoyed this as well. Yes I am happy I have purchased this book. I always use these books inconjunction with the net and current local newspapers.

Have travelled frequently to Europe with many LP guides as a reliable and recommended companion. I am 43 years an Angelino and in comparison to European guide books highly disappointing to. I guess this book is a maybe ok guide for the first time foreign traveller. Where are the restaurants? Hotels? Beach bars?

Google and Yelp help but if you really want to 'scoop', you need to have this book...

This book was pretty useful for my trip to San Diego. It had some interested information about the area and laid out information about the different districts. Honestly I wish they had a version for just San Diego because I feel like they could have covered even more, but all in all a solid purchase.

I guess it's my fault for buying not just what I needed but the next best thing..I needed a city guide for the city of Los Angeles but there was not such book available from Lonely PlanetI always choose lonely planet because 9 out of 10 times provides me with the information I need and right on!Maybe it's okay for travellers taking a tour around the coast of southern California but definitely not so much for an in-depth knowledge of LAI was very disappointed to find there was no pull-out map, very little information for public transportation, and incomplete page maps (which by the way, I believe should never be split into two pages)

Bought this to go in a gift basket for work. I looked through it before giving it away. Nice maps, good over view of attractions and places to visit. I hope that who ever won this basket enjoys their journeys around both places

It came in very handy on our current trip and we will continue to use it in the future.
