Customer Reviews

Heather Krasna has a great deal of experience in offering advice on finding public sector jobs, and is now the Director of Career Services at the University of Washington's Evans School of Public Affairs in Seattle. The book is a lively read, because of the large number of personal profiles, based upon Krasna's interviews. But most important for job seekers it has a great deal of practical advice with a lot of specific information.

a book chock-full of useful information about careers and finding the job you like.

I learned a lot about myself by completing the exercises in this book. Great insight that will help in the job search Great guide for anyone wanting to learn more about jobs in the public sector, as well as how to successfully land a public job! Would especially recommend for those in MPA or MPP graduate programs.

I am interested in public service and I found this a very effective help to narrowing down what I want to do.

As a college career specialist, I was very impressed with this book. I have recommended it and lent it to students and workers interested in having a career that makes a difference. Well organized, clearly written and lists many excellent resources. Bravo Heather K.!

Perfect. Just what I need for class. I wasn't sure this would get to me in time but this arrived in plenty of time. Thanks!

This is a great book for this class! Nice articles in it about other careers to determine if this is a field for you.
