rivaling the best classroom experience. Convenient charts and checklists to document children's growth ensure that there are no gaps in educational, social, or physical development. Together, Kathy Lee and Lesli Richards have more than 20 years of early childhood and homeschooling experience. Both are highly sought-after speakers and presenters in the fields of early childhood education and homeschooling.

We love this book! There are so many ideas for learning & sensory play that I would have never come up with on my own. In my opinion these projects would work well for children who are older than preschool age as well. I really like that the ideas are divided into categories (science, fine motor, math, etc.) I also enjoy the full color photos of the activities described. I'm so thankful for this book, we've been having fun with it.

This book is amazing. It was recommended to me by one of my friends who runs a preschool co-op and the ideas and activities in this book do not disappoint. This book is a great resource for getting set-up to teach your kids at home through play-based learning. My girls (3 and 4 years old) love all the activities. I work full-time and love doing these activities after work and on the weekends.

Fun ideas for preschoolers- elementary. My kids are 4 and 6 and both are enjoying the activities!!! If you need ideas of what to do to keep your child learning and having fun, this is the book for you!

Such great ideas and encouragement!

Love this book! So many fantastic, affordable ideas to engage your preschooler. Perfect for any parent with a toddler...not just homeschool parents. I'll be looking into their other material!

Filled with hundreds of activities and examples of teachable moments. I especially love the recipes throughout.

This book was extremely helpful in planning home preschool for my daughter. The authors have great practical ideas on how to incorporate preschool in everyday life, and ideas on keeping things play based. I felt like the organization was a little confusing. Otherwise this book has helped me to accomplish my goal, and so I extremely thankful.

This is a great resource for preschool moms! It is a large, full color book that is very engaging to read as well as full of wonderful information on making your home a great place for your preschooler to learn.
